Sherpa 1 Side

Recycled / Virgin

Sherpa fabric with one side features a soft, fluffy pile on one side, resembling sheep's wool, while the other side is typically smooth. It is warm, lightweight, and breathable, making it ideal for winter apparel like jackets, hoodies, and blankets, as well as baby products such as stroller liners and car seat covers. Its moisture-wicking properties add to its versatility.

Sherpa 1 Side and 1 Side Brushed

This fabric has a sherpa pile on one side and a brushed finish on the other, offering a soft, velvety texture on the brushed side. It is warm, durable, and lightweight, making it ideal for reversible jackets, cozy blankets, loungewear, and home decor items like cushion covers. The dual textures combine warmth and comfort.

3

Sherpa 2 Side

Sherpa fabric 2 side has a fluffy, textured pile on both sides, making it extra thick and warm. It is ideal for heavy-duty winter coats, thick blankets, outdoor gear like sleeping bags, and pet accessories. Its plush, insulating properties make it perfect for extremely cold climates.

4

Sherpa - Teddy

Recycled / Virgin

Sherpa - Teddy

Sherpa teddy fabric has a shorter and denser pile, creating a soft, plush texture similar to a teddy bear. It is lighter, less bulky, and softer than traditional sherpa fabric, making it ideal for stuffed toys, lightweight jackets, and home decor items like pillows and blankets. Its luxurious feel provides both comfort and warmth.

Sherpa bonded fabric

5

Recycled / Virgin

Sherpa bonded fabric

Sherpa bonded fabric is made by laminating sherpa fabric with another material, such as fleece or knit, which improves its durability and functionality. It is heavier, more structured, and often water-resistant or windproof, making it perfect for outdoor wear like ski jackets, workwear, heavy-duty scarf, and upholstery.
